

Tough Talk Won't Avert Disaster For French In Indochina

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Eisenhower administration talked tough but, it appears now, never had a prepared plan to help the French if they faced disaster in Indochina at the hands of the Communist-led Vietminh.

The tough talk didn't stop the Communists. Secretary of State Dulles didn't come up with a plan until the French did face disaster. So far his plan hasn't worked.

When the Korean truce was signed last summer, Dulles focused American and world attention on Indochina, where the French had been fighting the Vietminh seven years.

Supplies From China

On Sept. 2 he warned the Communist Chinese not to send their troops into Indochina.

If this was intended to warn the Chinese they might be bombed in China if they sent an army into Indochina, it overlooked a reality they didn't have to send in an army.

The native Indochinese rebels were willing to fight and die. They needed supplies and expert direction and help. The Chinese sent in supplies and specialists.

Yet, that may be the future pattern of Communist aggression anywhere: get the native communists to revolt and then see them through a victory with supplies and trained men who stay in the background.

In another major policy speech Jan. 12 Dulles said aggression would be met with instant and massive retaliation. Later he watered it down, saying he had meant to emphasize not so much the word "instant" as this country's "capacity" to retaliate instantly, if it wished to.

Nations Divided

It was watered down even further by President Eisenhower on March 10. He told a news conference the United States would not get involved in war without a formal declaration by Congress.

Three days later Dulles explained Eisenhower could order instant retaliation if he thought an attack anywhere was preliminary to attack on this country. Chinese aggression in Indochina could hardly be considered that.

On the very day Dulles gave that explanation, the Vietminh began a major offensive against the French fortress of Dien Bien Phu in northwest Viet Nam.

All this time the administration seemed to think the French would win.

By March 29 the Vietminh had given the French a battering. Dulles said a Communist victory in Indochina would lead to domination of all Southeast Asia. "That possibility," he said, "should not be passively accepted but should be met by united action."

This, at last, seemed to be a plan, although one thought up at the last moment, for he dashed off to see if the French and British would form a Pacific alliance like the one they had with this country in Europe.

Britain and France insisted on waiting to see what happened at the Geneva conference before agreeing to "united action."

They went into the conference divided, facing the undivided Communists, who could take advantage of their split. They did. Now the French may agree to a peace plan which could lead to eventual seizure of all Indochina.

Stevens Still Under Fire In McCarthy Quiz

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators investigating the McCarthy-Army row prodded the principals today for a speed up, but Sen McCarthy declined to say how much time he might need or how many witnesses he might call.

McCarthy said he expects to take at least three more days in questioning Secretary of the Army Stevens, who was called back to the witness stand for the eighth day.

Until he has completed his questioning of Stevens, McCarthy said, he cannot tell how many witnesses he will call in behalf of himself and his two top aides, Roy M. Cohn and Francis P. Carr.

Time Wasted

It might even be necessary, McCarthy declared, to call Frank Pace, who was Stevens' predecessor as secretary of the Army; Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), a former secretary of the Air Force, and some other senators.

He indicated the purpose of calling Pace and Symington would be to explore how requests such as those allegedly made in behalf of Pvt. G. David Schine were handled before Stevens took office.

At this, Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) commented: "May I suggest we are wasting time. Let's proceed."

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) touched off the "speed up" talk when the Senate investigations subcommittee convened. Saying his remarks were in the nature of a parliamentary inquiry, Dirksen asked Chairman Mundt (R-SD) whether something could not be done to expedite the hearings.

Other Work Waiting

He noted that four members of the subcommittee are members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, which he said had important work to do, and that McCarthy also is a member of that group.

Mundt invited suggestions for speeding up the hearings. Joseph N. Welch, counsel for the Army, renewed his proposal of last week that Sen. McCarthy be called to the witness chair immediately after the Stevens' testimony is completed.

If McCarthy takes the stand next, Welch said, he is confident that the "minor characters will move on and off the stage with amazing swiftness."

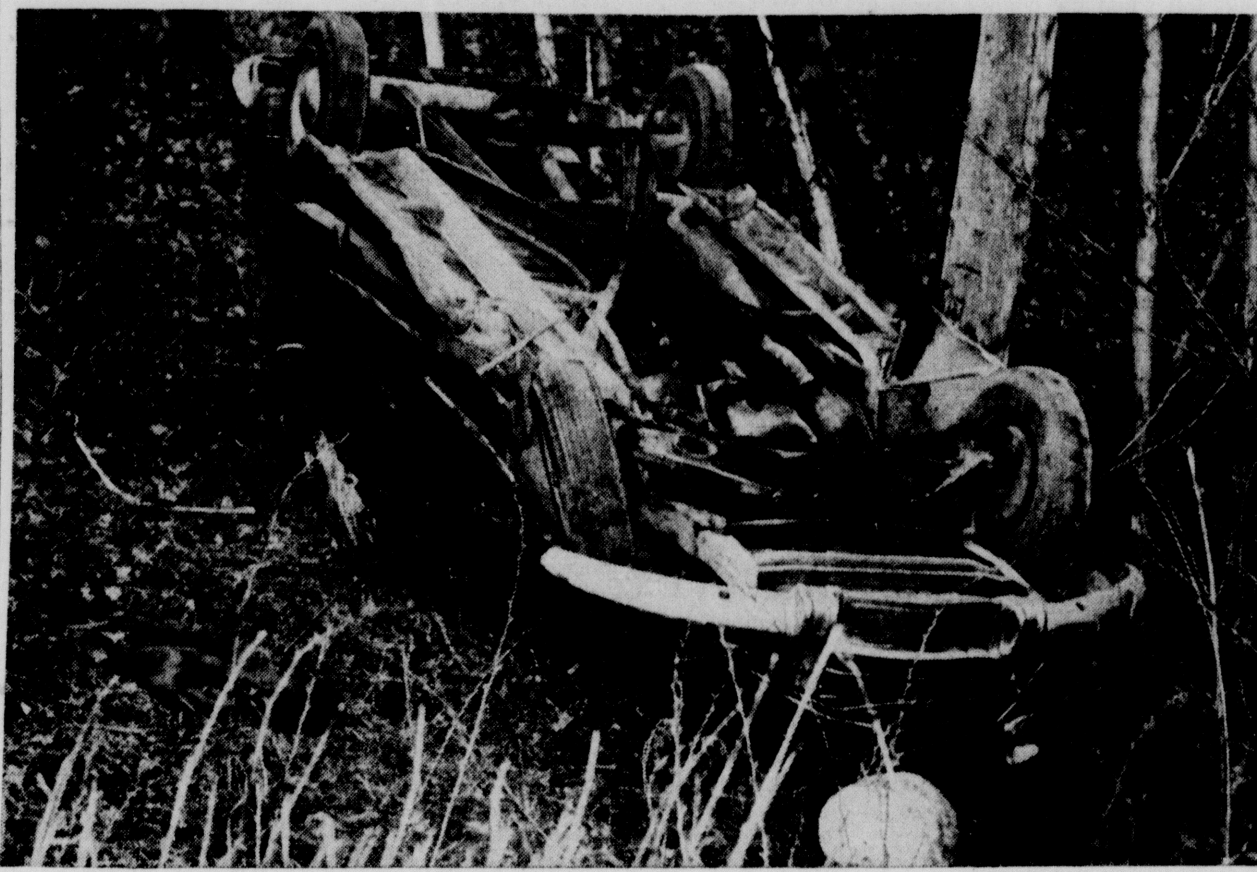

McCarthy named John G. Adams, Army counselor, as one witness he would want to question.

In saying he may call senators, McCarthy said some of them had been approached in an effort to get the hearings called off.

Symington joined McClellan in suggesting that time was being wasted by the talk of trying to speed up the hearings.

Cohn then took over the questioning of Stevens. He promptly turned to the secretary's actions in relation to Maj. Gen. Kirke B. Lawton.

Prison Baseball Game Called Off As 19 Men Escape

ATMORE, Ala. (AP)—A ball game between two prison teams ended abruptly in the fourth inning Sunday when 19 of the spectators sniped their way through a steel mesh fence under a sleeping tower guard.

Seventeen escapees from Atmore State Prison were rounded up Sunday. The search for the two convicts still missing spread out today.

Henry Sawyer, the tower guard who admitted falling asleep, was fired immediately. Three other guards were suspended pending an investigation.

State Prison Director J. M. McCullough said the 15 Negroes recaptured admitted they had noticed Sawyer asleep in his tower and cut their way through the fence almost directly below him.

The other three guards were suspended because "they could have stopped the break if they had been alert," McCullough said. They apparently were so interested in the close game that they didn't see the bleachers emptying.

Vietminh Reds Will Be Invited To Conference

By EDDY GILMORE

GENEVA (AP)—East and West reached virtual agreement today on the setting up of a peace conference to end the bloody fighting in Indochina.

The Soviet Union agreed, French sources said, to a Western proposal that representatives of the Communist-led Vietminh be invited to the conference by the Soviet Union instead of by Communist China.

The Western Big Three foreign ministers and Foreign Minister Nguyen Quoc Dinh of Viet Nam formally agreed to admit Vietminh representatives with the understanding that this would not imply recognition of the Vietminh regime as a state.

Deadlocked On Korea

The Russians and the West already had agreed that nine parties would attend the conference—the Big Four, the Chinese Reds, the Vietminh and the three Associated States of Indochina, Viet Nam, Cambodia and Laos.

Smoothing out of the issue of Vietminh status came as the Korean deadlock showed no sign of a break and some of the Western foreign ministers began heading for home.

U. S. Undersecretary of State Walter Bedell Smith took over leadership of the American delegation as U. S. Secretary of State Dulles headed for Washington by plane. Dulles scheduled a stop at Milan to meet Italian Premier Mario Scelba for a talk on the stalemate European army treaty and Italy's wrangle with Yugoslavia over Trieste.

Ministers Leave

Australian Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey also left for home today, and other foreign ministers were expected to turn their conference duties over to deputies in the next week or two. Russia's V. M. Molotov was understood to have said he would be here two more weeks.

A French announcement said agreement on the participation of the Vietminh representatives in the Indochina parley was reached this morning at a meeting of Dinh with Smith, British Foreign Secretary Eden and French Foreign Minister Bidault.

The Soviet agreement to invite the Vietminh representatives was given after Ambassador Jean Chauvel of France had handed Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko a note proposing this procedure. Earlier, the Soviet Union had suggested that Red China invite the Vietminh representatives.

Dulles Criticized

Until last week American authorities took the line that any compromise settlement with the Communists would ultimately mean the loss of Indochina. Yet Eisenhower's news conference statements Thursday were taken to mean he was thinking in terms of a compromise settlement—which, according to press dispatches, came as a startling surprise to Dulles at Geneva.

Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, said Dulles' Geneva appearance "had the somber notes of a political funeral" and what he accomplished there was "very disappointing."

Questioned on an NBC TV show Sunday night, Mitchell said "I don't think the Republican Party and the Republican administration has made its position at all clear... And we sent him (Dulles) there with a popgun and shot the ground from under him..."

In London, there was widespread newspaper criticism of Dulles' policies at the conference.

The Conservative Sunday Times in a Geneva dispatch reported a rift between the United States and her allies because Britain had refused to intervene militarily in Indochina while the conference is on.

Hearings Started On Infiltration Of Reds In Michigan

DETROIT (AP)—Rep. Kit Clardy (R-Mich) opens hearings today to determine how far communism has infiltrated into education and labor in Michigan.

Clardy, chairman of a House Un-American Activities subcommittee, said he expected to call between 8 and 10 witnesses the first day, more than half of them educators.

He said, however, one "pretty important" witness may be called from the labor field.

The white-haired Michigan congressman, commenting on criticism by the CIO United Auto workers, said often the "most trouble is stirred up before a hearing." He said he thought the union, some of whose members have been subpoenaed, would be one of the chief benefactors of the investigation.

The first two witnesses, he said, were Sidney W. Graber, a social studies teacher at a Detroit elementary school, and Dr. Gerald Harrison, a faculty member and physicist at Wayne University.

He said his group is not conducting a trial and is not trying "to determine who is guilty and who is not guilty." He said it is merely trying to determine how far communism has infiltrated into the fields of labor and education.

Clardy said the subcommittee would conduct hearings in Detroit, Lansing and Flint. But he said sessions will be suspended Thursday while committee members go back to Washington to vote on the St. Lawrence Seaway bill.

The committee has issued 80 subpoenas but has not publicly disclosed names of the recipients. Some of the witnesses however have announced they were called by the committee.

Part Of 75 Million Illicit FHA Profits May Be Recovered

WASHINGTON (AP)—Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole says the government may be able to recover some of the 75 million dollars in "windfall" profits which he estimates builders got under the federal housing program.

Reversing an earlier opinion that the gains made by builders involved nothing illegal, Cole said Sunday some federal-insured loan contracts may have forbidden such "windfall" profits.

"It is quite possible that suits may be brought to recover," he said on an NBC TV program.

Cole has charged that some builders obtained loans for amounts far exceeding the actual cost of apartment houses built with the loans. Builders were able to pocket the difference by paying themselves liquidating dividends, he said.

In New York, 600 tenants of a big Queens apartment development which was cited in recent disclosures as an example of such a case, voted unanimously yesterday to withhold 25 per cent of their rents.

Since maximum rents are based on the amount of the mortgage, the tenants contend the 25 per cent represents approximately the difference between cost and its 20-million-dollar cost and its mortgage of more than 26 million.

A spokesman for the tenants said the 25 per cent would be held in escrow until the issue is settled. Officials of firms which built and manage the development could not be reached for comment.

Defense Trio Takes Oath In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—With President Eisenhower looking on, three key defense officials took the oath of office at White House ceremonies today.

Promotion of the three resulted from the resignation of Roger M. Kyes as deputy secretary of defense.

Succeeding Kyes, Robert B. Anderson was sworn in as the number two man in the Defense Department. Anderson in turn was succeeded by Charles S. Thomas as secretary of the Navy, and Thomas was succeeded as an assistant secretary of defense by Thomas P. Pike.

Dulles Coming Home To Face Flood Of Advice

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional comment made it clear today that Secretary of State Dulles, rebuffed abroad in his plea for "united action" against communism in Indochina, will be greeted with a welter of conflicting advice when he returns to the United States.

Dulles, due back from the Geneva conference Tuesday, is scheduled for a round of talks with congressional leaders and administration officials over what to do about the Red threat to strategic Southeast Asia. Differences of opinion were evident both among congressmen and within the administration.

Coalition Demanded

Senate Majority Leader Knowland of California in an interview Saturday called on the United States to move at once for a coalition defense against communism in Asia, even if this means acting without one of her major allies.

This was an obvious reference to Britain, whose Prime Minister Churchill has turned down Dulles' bid for a united front of 10 powers interested in Southeast Asia, including both the United States and Britain, in advance of talks with the Communists at Geneva. U. S. officials here said Sunday that prospects of direct American intervention in Indochina are virtually ruled out unless Britain agrees to a coalition.

Repeating his criticism of British policy, Knowland said on a DuMont TV show Sunday night the United States has "the right to know which of our allies are prepared to stand up with us and be counted."

Land Power Not Problem

He also said, "I don't believe that the need of meeting the situation in Indochina is land power from the Western nations."

This was in reply to Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont.), who said on the same program that any U. S. air support of the French in Indochina could easily lead to use of American naval and ground forces there and might bring on World War III. "There is no such thing as limited" intervention, Mansfield said.

A congressional source who asked not to be named said over the weekend that legislative leaders, meeting in Dulles' office April 5, blocked a proposal to send U. S. air and sea forces to Indochina. The proposal was said to have been outlined by Adm. Arthur M. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Northern Democrats Try To Block Changes In Taft-Hartley Law

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's request for changes in the long-disputed Taft-Hartley law was up today for a Senate ground in which Republican leaders seemed confident they could beat down a Democratic move to pigeonhole the whole issue.

An attempt by Northern Democrats to send the matter back to the Labor Committee — in effect killing it for this session — was looked for early in the debate, which may last two weeks.

Bitter Issue Outlined

Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.), Labor Committee Chairman, finished work over the weekend on a two-hour speech he may deliver today. It outlines the revision bill adopted several weeks ago by the committee on straight party lines.

Teptative GOP plans called for Sen. Goldwater (R-Ariz) to follow Smith with an amendment on the touchy states' rights question.

Goldwater's proposal, which he said has the backing of White House labor aides, seems certain to become the bitterest point at issue in this review of one of the most controversial fields of legislation in recent history.

Taft-Hartley has not been debated in full on the Senate floor since 1949, two years after the law was passed over former President Truman's veto. Only two amendments, both minor, have been adopted to the 1947 act which, in turn, was a series of amendments to the 1935 Wagner Act.

Minor Changes Asked

Last Jan. 12 Eisenhower sent Congress a special message calling the Taft-Hartley law "sound legislation" and listing what he said were only minor changes needed to "reinforce its basic objectives."

The Senate Labor Committee, after weeks of hearings last year, adopted a revision program three weeks ago closely following Eisenhower's recommendations. The House Labor Committee also completed hearings but has not yet voted out a bill.

Secret Poll Omitted

The only major Eisenhower proposal left out of the Senate committee's revision bill was one for a secret, government-conducted poll of employees on the question of striking whenever a labor dispute entered the strike stage. At least two committee Republicans and all its Democratic members refused to endorse this proposal.

Goldwater's states' rights amendment, the author said in an interview, would allow states to enforce pretty much any labor relations law in disputes involving interstate commerce so long as the law did not, in the words of the amendment, "permit employers... to interfere with, restrain or coerce employees in the exercise of the rights guaranteed to employees" in the Taft-Hartley law.

Boycott Ban Eased

In the past few years state laws requiring strike votes before a strike can take place and forbidding strikes in certain industries, such as public utilities, have been ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court on grounds they interfered with the right to strike recognized in the federal law. Goldwater's amendment is designed to legalize all such state laws.

Major provisions in the Republican bill would ease the ban on secondary boycotts, give construction unions special union security powers and allow them to write pre-hire contracts, prevent elections asked by a struck employer for at least six months after the strike started, permit fact-finding boards set up to report on national emergency disputes to recommend settlement terms as well, and allow states to take jurisdiction over minor labor disputes which the National Labor Relations Board refused to handle.

Mid-Spring Freeze Brings Snow; Threat Of Tornadoes Ended

(By The Associated Press)

A mid-spring freeze moved down the center of the nation today, pushing eastward the wet, warm air that spawned drenching rains and tornadoes during the past several days.

The southward moving cold air literally froze out the tornadoes which struck 29 Oklahoma communities Saturday night, causing five deaths and injuring 64. While ending the menace of tornadoes in many Midwest states, it brought snow to at least three—up to nine inches at International Falls, Minn.

Plows Out Again

The turn of the weather brought out snowplows in the areas of heavy fall from northern Minnesota and upper Michigan. It swelled the rivers of eastern Minnesota and western Wisconsin.

The freezing weather, extending from the northern Rockies through the northern Plains into the Lake Superior region and southward into the Texas panhandle, covered tornado-stricken Oklahoma where damage estimates ranged up to a million dollars.

One of the Saturday night tornadoes wiped out 30 houses in Meeker, a town of 1,000 population. There were no fatalities reported there although 26 persons were injured. Two persons were killed near Grandfield when a tornado overtook a truck in which they were trying to outrun it, two others drowned in rain-swollen streams and a Tulsa woman died of a heart attack running to a cellar shelter after hearing a tornado warning siren.

Steel Workers To Ask Pay Raise

By JOHN MOODY

PITTSBURGH, (AP)—The CIO United Steelworkers' 170-member Wage Policy Committee comes here Thursday and Friday to put finishing touches on the union's contract demands before starting negotiations with the nation's basic steel industry.

The committee's final draft undoubtedly will include demands for a wage increase and improvements in the present insurance and pension programs. But few observers expect any serious effort to be made for a guaranteed annual wage.

The big industry, which has granted seven rounds of wage hikes since World War II, is feeling the pinch of a business lag for the first time in several years and this is expected to weaken union bargaining power.

Only recently, David J. McDonald, president of the steelworkers, told the union's 39-member Executive Board that steel production is down more than he expected it to go.

McDonald said there are 189,344 USW members furloughed from basic and fabricating steel plants and another 257,026 members on part time schedules.

EYC Plans Special Events For Season

Special events for power boat owners will be proposed at the May 12 meeting of the Escanaba Yacht Club. The program also features a talk about power cruising on Lake Superior, and a color movie on family-style outboard cruising.

Non-members who are interested in attending the meeting are asked to contact Marcial Sorensen, Walter Doehler Sr., or Dana Peck, who have been appointed to the committee in charge of the meeting.

The EYC board of trustees voted last week to accept the Gladstone Yacht Club's invitation to hold joint races, both power and sail, at each of the clubs this season.

City Schools Lose One Mill In Tax Allocation

The Delta County tax allocation board Saturday evening voted, 4 to 2, to set a tentative allocation of 6.5 mills for Escanaba and Gladstone schools and 8.5 mills for the county in the annual division of the 15 mill tax assessment. In recent years the schools and the county shared equally.

The meeting lasted more than three hours and the matter up for consideration was discussed at great length. There was also a larger than usual spectator attendance. Comments were invited from those present. William Karas, county road engineer, pleaded that the millage for county purposes be increased in order that one mill could be allocated for repairs on county road bridges. Heretofore, for many years, nothing has been allocated for this purpose and, according to Karas, the bridges are in precarious shape.

The additional mill will mean a loss to the Escanaba Public Schools of about $15,000, based upon the assessed valuation of Escanaba, and a loss to the Gladstone Public Schools of about $3,000, based upon the assessed valuation of Gladstone.

On the basis of the entire county valuation, the millage increase will be $33,500 for the county roads. This fund will be further increased by federal matching money.

When brought to a vote four members of the board favored the change and two voted against it. Voting in favor were Helmer J. Skogquist, chairman; Ann Villeneuve, H. J. Henrikson and Jacob Bink. Against were Hagle Quarnstrom and Mrs. Dorothy Lindquist, the latter representing the Escanaba Board of Education in place of Gust Peterson.

The next meeting of the allocation board will be on Friday, May 7 at 7 p. m. when the allocation will be permanently set and a tentative allocation of millage for county and township schools will be made.

Action by the board at this time does not become effective until next fall when the county board of supervisors acts upon the budget.

Carpenters Get 15c Pay Boost

Upper Michigan union carpenters were granted a 15 cents per hour wage increase in a new union contract signed by the Upper Peninsula Contractors Association and the Carpenters and Joiners craft union.

Contract negotiations were conducted in Escanaba Friday at the House of Ludington by committees of the two groups. James Despins of Green Bay, U. S. Labor Dept. conciliator, assisted in the negotiations.

The negotiations were in progress for two months before an agreement was reached. Controversy settled around a union demand for a five cents per hour health and welfare benefit in addition to the wage increase. This request was not incorporated in the final agreement.

The contract was effective May 1. The union basic scale now is $2.50 per hour.

Mrs. Grobaski Fatally Burned In L'Anse Home

Mrs. Ben Grobaski, 47, the former Charlotte McCauley of Escanaba, died at 7:30 a. m. Sunday in Baraga County Memorial Hospital at L'Anse de burns suffered Saturday night in a fire that damaged the Grobaski home.

L'Anse firemen said the fire started near a chair on the first floor of the Grobaski home. Mrs. Grobaski, who had retired early, was asleep in a bedroom on the second floor.

Her husband, owner and manager of the L'Anse theater, was at the theater and Mrs. Grobaski was alone in the house. Firemen said Mrs. Grobaski, apparently partly asphyxiated by the smoke, was overcome before she could reach the telephone on the first floor of the house, where she was found by firemen.

She was rushed to the hospital where she died Sunday morning.

Mrs. Grobaski was born in Escanaba and was raised by an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Whiting, who now reside in L'Anse.

Survivors include two aunts, Mrs. George Stoic and Mrs. Ed Jernstrom of Escanaba, and an uncle, Charles McCauley of Wells. Mr. and Mrs. Jernstrom and Mrs. Stoic left today for L'Anse, where funeral services will be held at 9 a. m. Wednesday in Sacred Heart Church.

Four Injured In Two-Car Crash

Four persons were injured, none critically, in the Saturday evening collision of two automobiles on US-241 just north of the Terrace Garden entrance road between Escanaba and Gladstone.

Receiving treatment in St. Francis Hospital are:

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald E. Pavaglio of 105 W. College Ave., Marquette; Marion D. Keeton of Escanaba Rte. 1, and his passenger, Walter Wallin, 2422 Ludington St., Escanaba.

Mrs. Pavaglio, 32, has fractured ribs, bruises and shock; Mr. Pavaglio, 35, lacerations and shock; Keeton, 27, fractured ribs and head lacerations; Wallin, 31, cuts and bruises.

The accident occurred at 5:45 p. m. Saturday when a car driven by Keeton, going north, improperly overtook and passed two cars and came head-on toward the southbound car driven by Mr. Pavaglio, according to a report by Michigan State Police of the Gladstone post.

State Police said Pavaglio tried to swerve out of the way and onto the shoulder to avoid the accident. The front of Keeton's car hit the

Three Soloists Featured In Karas Concerts Tuesday And Wednesday For Bandshell Fund

Three soloists, among 200 local musicians, will be featured Tuesday and Wednesday evenings in the second annual Karas Memorial Concerts for the benefit of the Karas memorial bandshell to be built in Ludington Park.

The concerts will be presented at 8 p. m. in Escanaba Junior High School auditorium. Elie DeDryver is program chairman.

Tickets may be obtained at the door or from members of the music groups or the Karas Memorial Committee, of which Roy Pearson is chairman. Tickets are also on sale at Delta Music Center, Gust Asp's, Marcel's, Saykly's, Norm's Market, the Sav-Mor, the Igloo and Beck's store.

Instrumental And Vocal

Robert E. LeMire, Escanaba councilman, will present the story of the Karas memorial bandshell project. Development of the bandshell site in Ludington Park is scheduled for this year and construction of the shell for next year.

Featured soloists in the 1954 Karas Concerts are Mrs. Alice Hartbarger, pianist; Danny Sheeran, organist; and Miss Jean LaBranche, soprano.

Mrs. Hartbarger is director of vocal music in Escanaba High School. Mr. Sheeran is well known in the community for his virtuosity at the organ. Miss LaBranche was top place winner of the Junior Chamber of Commerce local talent contest.

Aid Bandshell Fund

Music groups to appear in the concerts are the Escanaba Municipal Band, directed by Cecil Collins; Orpheus Choral Club, directed by Mrs. M. H. Garrard; the Escanaba String Ensemble; and the Escanaba Senior High School Orchestra, directed by Robert S. Meyer.

The concert program will feature a variety of music ranging from popular to the semi-classical and classical. Last year's concert, also arranged by DeDryver, was well received and a total of $1,200 was raised for the Karas Memorial Bandshell fund.

All proceeds from the concerts go to the bandshell fund, which now totals nearly $7,000. The money has been turned over to the city and is invested in bonds to draw interest for the fund.

The bandshell is planned as a memorial to the late Frank Karas, Escanaba musician and teacher of music in the Escanaba schools for 20 years.

The Pavaglio car crashed into the ditch on the left side of the highway; the Keeton car skidded sideways and then went over an embankment and landed on its top.

The injured were taken to the hospital by ambulance.

Taft's Mark Will Endure In The Annals Of History

LOOKING back less than a year after the death of Sen. Robert A. Taft, no one can say with any sort of finality where history will eventually place him. Yet it seems unlikely that he will be found of lesser stature than such other great lawmakers as Henry Clay, Daniel Webster and John C. Calhoun.

What has stirred fresh thoughts on Taft's role in history is the publication of a book called "The Taft Story," by William S. White, a leading Washington correspondent of the New York Times. White has produced not a biography but a political profile. It is discerning, reflective, subtle, compassionate. It seeks pointedly to appraise the senator's significance for his times.

White sees that significance as large. A few who have sought to measure the book tend to disagree. One historian, for example, said that he felt the passage of time would diminish Taft's stature. He stressed the fact that, except for the Taft-Hartley Act, the senator's name is attached to no important legislation.

This would seem a trivial and almost wholly irrelevant yardstick. Lawmakers are not baseball pitchers, to be judged by their win-and-lost record. Far more to the

Words, Wit & Wisdom

By William Morris

Far too many of us, I'm afraid, have been forgetful of the lonely plight of our servicemen in Korea. Now that the fighting has ceased, there remains only the need for constant patrols, unending vigilance and an occasional visit from a traveling U. S. O. outfit.

Those of us who knew the boredom of another war—the never-ending monotony that Thomas Heggan depicted so superbly in MISTER ROBERTS—have an obligation, it seems to me, to keep a steady stream of letters and packages going out to those lads who are serving our country—unspectacularly but indispensably—in Korea today.

This letter from a Milwaukee corporal, Lee R. Wolfe, passes on some interesting new Army slang and gives its own picture of the kind of life these men are leading today.

"I have been reading your column in the 'Milwaukee Journal' for a long time now and enjoy it very much. Since I have been overseas my mother has clipped them out and mailed them to me and I have piles of them all over the place.

"I wish you would mail a copy of your self-scoring vocabulary test to me as soon as possible. Since I have been in 'Counterfile' my work has been nothing but guard in an outpost bordering the Demilitarized Zone. Of course we have instruments to operate but it still leaves a lot of time to look at each other, the sand bag walls, the hills or anything else that we've already seen a thousand times. Perhaps we can get on an educational 'kick' now.

"By the way, here are a few bits of G. I. jargon, not quite teen-talk, but still pretty hep. 'Bug-out' is a great way of saying 'Let's get out of here on the double.' A certain company in our regiment is called 'Bug-out' George. Of course they were overrun and had to.

"'Chogie' (CHOH-gee) means to carry, usually uphill, as to chogie water to OP 6. However 'Cutta chogie' is to take off or quit the scene. Unlike 'bug-out,' it is honorable and would be used if you wanted to slip out of a bad movie—'Let's cutta chogie.

"To any G. I. in Korea, Hong Kong or Japan a woman is simply a 'moose,' from the Japanese 'mus-a-may'—'Did you get a load of that moose?'

"Now it's time to cutta chogie to the U. S. O. show in Happy Valley. I hear they have six moose out of this world but if they don't swing I can always bug-out."

The Doctor Says ... Similar Circulatory Diseases Still Keep Causes Hidden

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D. — Written for NEA Service

Four requests to discuss either Buerger's disease or Raynaud's disease are before me. These are generally considered separate conditions, but they both involve the blood vessels and are similar in certain respects, so that it is possible to discuss them together.

There is a true inflammation of the blood vessels in Buerger's disease, particularly those vessels in the feet and legs. After awhile the changes produced may cause complete blockage of blood flow through these blood vessels.

The disappearance of the normal pulsation, or beats, of the blood vessels in the affected limb is characteristic. The disease is much more common in men than in women.

Although the cause is not definitely known, sometimes tobacco, infection, ringworm, or a chemical poison known as ergot seem to play a part.

ALL PATIENTS suffering from Buerger's disease are not treated exactly alike. The most important features of treatment, however, are absolute avoidance of tobacco, removal of any sources of infection, and a good intake of fluids and salts.

In the more serious cases, the use of drugs to prevent coagulation of the blood, and some other forms of medical management may be useful. Surgery is frequently required. When the blood supply has been cut off to a toe, for example, the entire toe may have to be removed.

IN RAYNAUD'S disease, the blood supply to a particular part is not cut off entirely but the blood vessels affected go into spasms and contract, especially when exposed to cold. An emotional upset may cause the same effect as cold.

Raynaud's disease is most common in the hands, and consequently the fingers often turn white when put in cold water, or when anything else happens which produces a contraction of the blood vessels.

Exposure to cold, emotional upsets, and like factors which bring on the symptoms should be avoided. Tobacco must be permanently prohibited.

THE CAUSE is not known, and although several good treatments are available, there is none as yet that can be considered a sure cure.

In Raynaud's disease, surgery can be useful, although amputation is rarely necessary.

More often surgery is aimed at the sympathetic nervous system with the purpose of relaxing the spasms in the blood vessels.

point is the power and influence a senator may exert over the general course of legislation.

Gauged this way, Senator Taft was one of the most powerful men ever to establish himself on Capitol Hill. Even through many years of the long Republican twilight while Democrats were reigning at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue, the Ohioan's was the strongest single voice heard in the legislative halls.

A small part of this power came to Taft because he was the bearer of a famous name. Much more came to him because he was the embodiment of great political forces—a symbol of order and stability to all who saw chaos in the trend of events.

Yet, fundamentally, he earned his position of power through tireless devotion to the substance and forms of lawmaking. As White suggests, he was virtually born to the Senate. He made himself a legislative authority. He gained a reputation for honesty and integrity. With these things came high respect. With respect came dependence of others upon him, and with dependence came power.

True enough, Taft's name adorned very little legislation. But his imprint was on practically everything important the Senate did in his last 10 years of life. And the knowledge that it would be a fact always to be reckoned with, by the whole Congress and the White House itself.

Unless the measure of a man's influence and significance alters radically in the next few decades, Taft's big mark on his own time will not easily fade.

A Lesson To Learn From Australia

THE famous case of Igor Gouzenko, Russian code clerk who tipped off Canada and the West on a Soviet atomic spy ring, appears about to have a parallel in Australia.

Vladimir Petrov, third secretary of the Soviet embassy in Canberra, has sought and gained asylum from the Australian government.

Australia promptly set up a royal commission to investigate, as did Canada after the Gouzenko disclosures. If American officials had originally followed the Canadian example and set up an independent commission, our inquiry into espionage and subversion might not have fallen chaotically to a wide range of conflicting and overlapping agencies.

Perhaps a fresh example from Australia would stir new interest in this country in getting investigation of Communist subversion and spying onto an orderly basis.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Behind the Indo-China hemming and hawing at Geneva is a conversation with Aum. Arthur Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which has made French Premier Laniel furious.

It wasn't publicized, but Laniel had formally asked for the intervention of the U. S. Air Force a little over a week ago. He did this, however, only after Admiral Radford had told him in advance that President Eisenhower would immediately agree.

But when the formal French request got to Washington, Eisenhower did just the opposite. He flatly said no—on the ground that he did not have authority without the prior consent of congress.

What actually happened was that Radford has been wanting the United States to intervene directly in the Indo-Chinese war while other members of the Joint Chiefs have not. The French premier, talking to the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, did not know about this deadlock in Washington. Also Eisenhower felt that congress and the American people would vigorously oppose the use of the American Air Force in Indo-China, and he didn't want to take the political consequences.

Therefore, he told Premier Laniel that the United States would intervene only if Great Britain joins us, which of course is just not going to happen. Winston Churchill had already told Ike in a telephone conversation that Britain would not cooperate.

Net result of the French conversations has made a virtual French surrender much more likely; and with it the likely fall of the middle-of-the-road Laniel government.

WESTERN "GIVEAWAY"

With just as little fanfare as possible, Secretary of the Interior McKay has given the green light to a reversal of the 50-year-old Teddy Roosevelt reclamation act.

In a letter dated April 6 to Congressman Miller of Nebraska, McKay has okayed the same principle for reclamation and water-power as has been applied to the graft-ridden F.H.A. Western senators who have examined the McKay plan say it amounts to the biggest giveaway since New Deal days and is a complete reversal of Eisenhower policy. They plan a battle to block the policy in congress.

But its chief provisions will be completely ignored. These provisions, considered all-important in the building up of the West, but bitterly fought by the power companies and big land-owners, are:

1. Preference to public bodies such as municipalities and REA co-ops, rather than private utilities, in the sale of power.
2. A 160-acre limit on the amount of land any one owner can have under water from a federal reclamation project. Big land owners have been trying to knock this limitation out for years.

To get around these two important reclamation policies, Secretary McKay has okayed a plan to give power on the Stanislaus River in California to a group of private irrigation developers plus Pacific Gas and Electric. In addition, the federal government will hand this group $10,370,000 in grants and loans under a special bill introduced by Congressman Leroy Johnson with Senators Knowland and Kuchel, Republicans.

RECLAMATION ACT IGNORED

On top of this, Congressman Miller of Nebraska has introduced a bill making this applicable to all of the 17 Western states. The reclamation act would be completely bypassed and ignored.

Furthermore, not only Secretary McKay personally, but the budget bureau and the Eisenhower administration have made this official policy.

Background of this important byplay is that about a year ago, the Oakdale and South San Joaquin irrigation districts signed a contract with Pacific Gas and Electric to set up three power plants on the Stanislaus River, and using this contract as security, they negotiated a loan of $4,700,000. The excess water, they planned, would be used for irrigation.

Just at this time, however, Secretary Humphrey's hard-money policy upset the applecart. The banks refused to go through with the loan.

Whereupon the California promoters called on Undersecretary of the Interior Ralph Tudor for help, and Tudor finally came through with a plan not only to give the Stanislaus River to the private groups, but also hand them $10,370,000 in loans and grants.

Unlike the Reclamation Act, which provided for repayment of water power loans with interest within 50 years, the new McKay plan is extremely nebulous as to the time of repayment and the rate of interest.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY

It was two congressmen who oppose the St. Lawrence Seaway who finally switched a vote in the rules committee in order to permit that long-delayed project to be debated this week.

For weeks, the St. Lawrence Seaway has been deadlocked inside the rules committee, 6 to 6. Finally, a congressman who opposes the seaway, Tom Steed, Oklahoma Democrat, went before the rules committee and argued that because Canada is one of our best friends we could not afford to bottle up the project in committee.

This argument appealed to Congressman John E. Lyle, Democrat, of Corpus Christi, Tex., a member of the rules committee, who hitherto had voted against reporting the St. Lawrence out of committee. It was Lyle who changed his vote, even though he opposed the St. Lawrence, and decided that in deference to Canada, the full house of representatives should vote on this important measure.

Questions and Answers

Q—What is Congress doing to carry out President Eisenhower's plan for an international pool of atomic material and information for peaceful uses?

A—Nothing so far. In requesting amendments to laws controlling atomic energy, the President Feb. 17 explained that these recommendations were apart from the atom-for-peace proposal submitted to the United Nations Dec. 8, 1953 He said legislation on that plan should await results of international discussions.

The New New Look

Guided Missile, Push-Button Warfare Now Reality For U.S.

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Guided missile, push-button warfare has arrived.

If all-out war should come tomorrow the U. S. arsenal would include at least five types of operational missiles ready for instant use against the enemy.

Combined, they add tremendous potential fire-power to U.S. forces on land, sea and in the air.

Their existence already is forcing top-level Pentagon planners to start making some drastic revisions of the traditional roles and missions of the three service. It could change the whole character of modern warfare in this generation.

During the last four years approximately $3 billion has been spent in stockpiling missiles to achieve the current state of missile-warfare readiness. During the next fiscal year $900 million will be spent on adding missile-power to the three services.

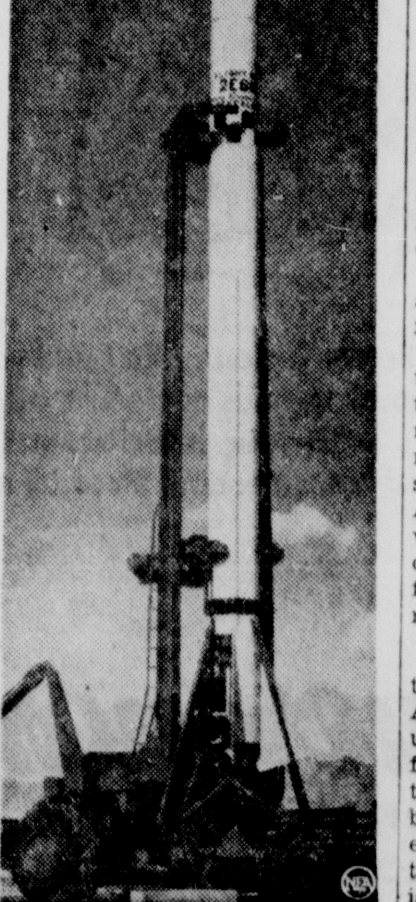

The best estimate is that 24,000 servicemen are actively engaged, full-time in some aspect of preparation for possible guided-missile warfare. That figure includes men already trained to fire missiles, those doing the training and the men currently being trained. It does not include additional thousands of servicemen and civilians engaged in continuing missile research and development.

The Army has made the greatest strides in missile warfare with its anti-aircraft Nike and artillery-type Corporal.

Nike's first mission is the promise to shoot down enemy bombers approaching at high altitudes. It is electronically-guided, powered by liquid fuel, about 20 feet long and one foot in diameter and travels unerringly to its target faster than the speed of sound.

Nike units are under construction near a half-dozen major U.S. cities. And many more are being planned. Plans also exist for establishing Nike units abroad.

The Corporal guided missile is a gigantic rocket capable of carrying a nuclear warhead farther than the atomic cannon. Trained crews exist to fire them in close cooperation with the movements of ground forces. The Corporal travels several times the speed of sound and is extremely accurate.

The most advanced Air Force missile is the Matador. It looks like a small fighter plane, can strike targets 300 miles away and travels about 600 miles-per-hour.

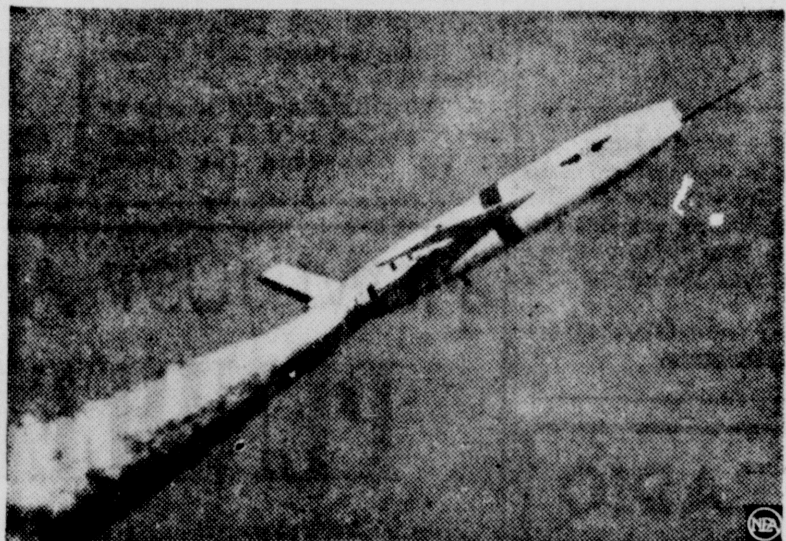

Another squadron is already formed and ready to alight at some strategic spot, while several more are being trained at Patrick Air Force Base in Florida.

In the same general category of missile is the whole family of guided enemy planes — the so-called air-to-air missiles.

Both Air Force and Navy planes are already prepared to fire these in combat.

The Navy has been more secretive than the other services on the state of its missile development. But what little has been revealed indicates that its missile activity is broad and complex. At the end of the Korean war it was sending missiles, in the form of drones with television eyes, from the deck of the aircraft carrier Boxer.

Its operational missile is called the Regulus and resembles the Air Force's Matador. It can be used against enemy shipping and for shore bombardment. By 1955 two cruisers, the Boston and Canberra, will be altered to fire several types of missiles, including the Regulus. The cost of this job is $30,600,000.

ARSENAL OF MISSILES: These are five types of operational missiles ready for instant use. From top to bottom: the Air Force Matador, the Navy Regulus, and air-to-air missiles in action. Lower left is Air Corporal and lower right, the Nike.

The submarine Tunny is also being equipped to fire missiles, along with three seaplane tenders.

The best estimate of the experts is that within two years there will be at least 10 different types of guided missiles in a state of operational readiness, with close to 100,000 men assigned to this new type of warfare.

Good Evening ...

MOTHER'S DAY—Next Sunday, May 9, is Mother's Day. In fact it will be the 40th anniversary of Mother's Day observance in the U. S. A., whose citizens to our knowledge are the only ones who recognize the event.

Fact is that Americans invented Mother's Day, although the people of other countries no doubt revere mother just as much as we do. Mother's Day is a national holiday, so designated by Congress in 1914.

But it takes more than Congress to put sons and daughters into the spirit of the day. Honoring mother requires more than a greeting card or a bouquet of flowers — for mother exists 364 other days of the year and should not be forgotten on any of them.

How to properly honor a mother is certainly a difficult question to answer to the satisfaction of mother. Some mothers like fuss and feathers and sweet talk, while others would love nothing more than to be temporarily relieved from the demands of a brood of children. How you honor mother depends upon mother's personality and situation.

BOYS AND SHAWLS—According to historians interested in such subjects, Mother's Day was founded by a young woman of Kentucky, who went around arranging meetings honoring mother.

The programs at these meetings were designed to make a woman feel a little more important because she was a mother. Back in the 1890's a start was made toward Mother's Day by holding programs in the schools.

The programs suggested for Mother's Day back in the 1890's would today leave most mothers just a bit unimpressed. For the school children sang such songs as "The Old, Red Shawl My Mother Wore," and recited, "How a Boy Should Treat His Mother."

Today's mothers are not inclined toward wrapping their shoulders in shawls, either red or any other color, and neither mother nor Junior delight in having their affection and love for each other put into sentimental rhyme.

THE MODERN VERSION—For a successful Mother's Day, 1954 version, we suggest that mother be honored by relieving her of some of the monotony of housework; escorting her on an outing with the family; or by giving her the family auto and a purse of money and telling her to go out and fling it away on a shopping spree. Mother would welcome a little occasional attention when she is up to her elbows in the dishwashing department. Any child old enough to know the significance of Mother's Day could take over without waiting for Congress to act.

Mother would no doubt enjoy a holiday with the family—either a picnic on a trout stream or a dinner by candlelight at one of the better eating places, depending on her inclinations.

Mother would also be happy over the shopping trip idea. She would no doubt become homesome soon after making purchases and return to her children—to present the gifts she bought for them!

Whatever is done for mother on Mother's Day will be most welcome, for while motherhood in all of its fascinating aspects is one of the most talked-of subjects in the world, relatively little is done to impress mothers with the importance of their accomplishment.

SAUCE FOR THE GANDER—No woman worth her salt expects to receive medals for having given birth to children, but if honors are conferred on her for that reason she can be expected to accept them gracefully.

Men, however, are more prone to make a spectacle of themselves when they become fathers, at least for the first time.

And not to be outdone in the parenthood honorable mention column they have established Father's Day, an event of little importance held sometime during the month of June.

Unlike Mother's Day, Father's Day is generally observed only because mother reminds father's offspring to do something about it. They also must remind Father that he has a father who should be remembered.

As for relieving father of any of his humdrum tasks on Father's day—don't be ridiculous. Every man knows that he, and he alone, can bring to his daily tasks the mature judgment, the masculine strength, and the wit and wisdom required to successfully perform them.

Dairy Products Prices Too Low

By OVID A. MARTIN
WASHINGTON (P)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson may have to raise government price support levels for such dairy products as butter, cheese and dried milk.

A department report on prices received by farmers in mid-April showed that dairy farmers were not getting the average of $3.14 for 100 pounds of manufacturing milk testing 3.95 per cent butter fat promised them under the dairy support program.

Instead, average prices received for this type milk, used mainly for making butter, cheese, dried milk and evaporated milk—was $2.93 for milk averaging 3.78 per cent butter fat. This price was equivalent to about $2.05 for milk testing 3.95 per cent butter fat—or 9 cents below the support level.

Benson has stated several times that if the prices at which the government buys butter, cheese and dried milk under the support program fail to reflect $3.41 for manufacturing milk and 56 cents a pound for butterfat to dairymen, he will raise the federal buying prices of the dairy products accordingly.

The price report showed however that dairymen received an average of 56.8 cents a pound for butterfat of almost 1 cent above the support level.

Rejected By Russia

VIENNA, Austria (P)—The Soviets have rejected a Western backed plan for restoring Austria's civil aviation. The Vienna government appealed to the four-power Allied Control Council Friday to lift the 1945 ban on Austrian plane operations. The United States, Britain and France supported the plea, but Russia turned it down charging the request actually was a smoke screen for schemes to re-establish the country's military air force.

Wildlife Helps Keep Michigan Prosperity

By GERALD E. EDDY
Michigan Conservation Director
Written for the Associated Press
LANSING (P)—With all the annual abundance available in Michigan, it seems a wonder any room remains for humans.

Counted in the millions, the birds, mammals and fish of the state are everywhere around us, take part in our daily lives, and provide immense amounts of industry, recreation and opportunity for all concerned.

Insects Controlled

It has been said that if all the birds were removed from the world, bugs and insects would in short order overrun and destroy all other life.

This might be particularly true in Michigan, where 54 bird families are found, most of them commonly. Hundreds of varied types are contained in these bird families, from the tiniest wrens, sparrows and nuthatches to the state swans and cranes.

While bird types are kept busy holding bug, insect, carrion, and refuse problems down, 17 wild mammal families in Michigan are active in other ways that contribute to the human scene.

Included in these families—as with the birds—are hundreds of individual varieties. The families are opossums, moles, shrews, bats, bears, raccoons, weasel-like mammals, hares and rabbits, mice and rats, Old World mice and rats, porcupines, beavers and deer.

The fish life of the state is also equally varied. At least 26 general families of fish are found in waters of the state and at least one count of fish varieties, past and present, in Great Lakes waters totaled 233.

Deer Draw Throngs

Around these wildlife populations are centered a number of busy and expanding human activities.

Sport fishing and hunting, with its complex business of tackle and equipment, is entirely dependent on wildlife populations for its existence.

In 1953 for example, deer hunting alone drew nearly half a million persons to state woodlands. The value of recreation these hunters obtained, the "market value" of meat they carried home and the cost of equipment they used would be impossible to compute.

Apart from sporting arms and attendant industries, there are important commercial industries directly tied to wildlife populations. Michigan is one of the top beaver-trapping states in the union, provides more than half a million muskrat pelts yearly and has a thriving commercial fishing industry that last year netted close to 30 million pounds of fish, most of it usable for human consumption.

Obviously, Michigan would not be Michigan were it not for the vast wildlife populations that, visible and hidden, surround the human inhabitants of the state.

Wife Of Oklahoma Governor Hopes To Succeed Her Husband

OKLAHOMA CITY (P)—Mrs. Johnston Murray has filed as a Democratic candidate for nomination for governor in an unprecedented move to succeed her husband as Oklahoma's chief executive.

He cannot succeed himself. No woman has ever been governor of Oklahoma and no wife of a governor has ever sought office.

Sixteen Democrats will oppose Mrs. Murray in the July 7 primary election.

Five Republicans filed in their party's gubernatorial race. Oklahoma has never had a Republican governor.

"I just sat crying and biting my fingernails until I heard on the radio none of the men were burned seriously," she added.

"But I still have no word from him, and I can't wait to find out exactly how he is."

Meanwhile, the mother of the other Michigan man injured, Airman 1c Wendell D. Smith, 22, of Berkeley, Mich., said she had received a reassuring phone call.

May Not Hold Bond Election

GLADSTONE—Gladstone City Commission in meeting tonight will have before it a written opinion of a Detroit bonding firm that a recent legislative act obviates the need for the holding of a referendum to validate the issuance of revenue bonds to finance construction of an electric generating plant.

Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, the bonding firm, advised the city that Bill 1102 enacted at the last legislative session, allows issuance of revenue bonds for adding or expanding of power plant facilities in municipalities without a referendum of the voters.

The bill becomes effective 60 days after close of the legislative session. Gladstone had planned a bond election July 12.

Detroit Democrats Make $25,000 Profit On $25-A-Plate Dinner

DETROIT (AP)—After the dishes were cleared away and the bills paid, the Democratic party had $25,000 for its 1954 campaign from its $25-a-plate Jefferson — Jackson Day dinner.

Some 1,500 attended the affair Saturday night. It was the official kickoff for the party's campaign in the congressional and state races.

Sen. Symington (D-Mo.), guest speaker, said the Democrats would control Congress after the fall elections. He said "budget firsters," the Republicans, were spending too little on defense.

Consumer Purchases Show Slight Decline

Three or four economic factors probably figured in slackened consumer buying as reflected in Ninth district department store sales recently, the Minneapolis Federal Reserve bank suggests in its current Monthly Review.

Following favorable sales the first two months of 1954, consumer purchases in March fell several percent below year-ago figures. This could be attributed to colder weather, a later Easter this year, and anticipation of excise tax reductions, the bank said.

Another possible explanation was believed to be employment, which during March remained below last year's levels. "If this was actually an active factor," the Review said, "it was the first month this year that results of recession had been evident in Ninth district department store sales."

Sales dipped 14 percent below receipts for March 1953, and were off more in the four large cities.

"Inventory Adjustment"

The bank report noted that consumers have not reduced their purchases as sharply as production has been cut back. This was considered "a moderating influence on the recent slowing of economic activity"—a slowing evidenced through unemployment in some areas of the nation's economy.

"Buyers, in general, have nibbled away at inventories of goods faster than 'braked' production has added to them," the Review commented. As a result a "more workable inventory level has been accomplished without undue difficulty."

For this reason, the report explained, the current "recession" has frequently been termed an "inventory adjustment."

Meanwhile, the bank said, "economic skies were being watched for signs that early reports of lessened unemployment and other indications of seasonal upturns presage a pickup in the economy to a tempo near that of other recent years."

Moderate Recession

Considering the extent of inventory liquidation since the beginning of the fourth quarter of 1953, the current business recession has been a moderate one in most areas of the economy.

Liquidation of inventories, to which the recession is being mainly attributed, brought about cutbacks in production. These led to elimination last fall of overtime paid to workers and in the past winter to some laying off of workers.

Reduction in output of defense materials has also been an important factor in cutbacks in industrial production, the Review said.

The bank's study noted that spending by consumers was "noticeably off" during the summer of 1953 although consumer incomes were at a record level. This leveling off in consumer demand was noted.

Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market exhibited a lower tendency today in subdued trading.

Losses were almost entirely fractional with only a few issues losing as much as a point. With a few exceptions, plus signs were small.

Trading pace was much less than Friday's high 2,450,000 shares. Lower divisions included chemicals, coppers, radio-televisions, farm implements, motors and steels. The utilities were higher on balance, and there was a touch of buoyancy about the oils, airlines, rubbers, and aircrafts.

The new stock of American Motors Corp. opened at 11 1/4. The company was formed from the merger of Nash-Kelvinator and Hudson. U. S. government bonds were easy.

mand with stocks of merchandise already high "touched off a liquidation of inventories in the fourth quarter of 1953."

Ninth district retailers in most trades have reduced their inventories in an orderly manner, the report observed. In accomplishing this, dealers of appliances and other durable goods "gave buyers large discounts through trade-ins or offered discounts for cash."

Stocks held by district department stores in 1953 followed the general trend of inventory buildup and reduction, the report continued. After rising in most months through September, stocks started a decline which continued in the first quarter of this year.

Retail lumber yard stocks likewise were built up in the early part of 1953 and reduced in the fall. Furniture stocks were not built up, however. Hardware store stocks were built to an excessive level in the first part of 1952 and reduced slowly later.

Flurries Of Snow Greet Escanabans

Scattered flurries of snow and promise of below freezing temperatures tonight are just a mild sample of that wide areas in the west, from Canada to the Texas panhandle have been getting for the past few days, says S. E. Decker of the Escanaba weather bureau.

Throughout Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana and as far south as Oklahoma, the ground is white with heavy drifts of wet snow.

In Minnesota, International Falls had 10 inches of snow, Duluth 4 and Minneapolis 2. Snow is now falling in the western part of the Upper Peninsula and Houghton is the coldest spot in the area with a temperature of 27 this morning.

Escanaba's precipitation yesterday afternoon and last night amounted to .7 of an inch. Yesterday's high here was 47 and the coldest this morning 36. A drop to 28 may be expected tonight.

Tomorrow's forecast is overcast skies and continued cool.

Test Developed For Ear Damage By Noise

ANN ARBOR—It is now possible to predict whose ears are susceptible to damage as the result of loud noises.

In a report appearing in the University of Michigan's Medical Bulletin, Drs. Merle Lawrence, research associate in the U-M Institute of Industrial Health, and Cyrus L. Blanchard, senior clinical instructor in the U-M department of otolaryngology, describe their test for noise-susceptible ears.

The report is far-reaching in significance, for it reveals for the first time a dependable test which can be used to forewarn workers who are presently engaged in noisy work or who are contemplating entering such situations.

Test Is Harmless
A man applying for a job as riveter takes a chance that his ears will give out under the constant din of a pneumatic hammer. Likewise, the employer has no assurance that compensation suits will not be filed against him because of the damage which results from the noise in his factory.

The new test, a painless and harmless one, may be a blessing both to the worker, who cherishes his hearing, and to the employer, who cherishes his solvency.

The U-M acoustics scientists, working in the new Kresge Research Building under a grant from the Institute of Industrial Health, sought a test which could be administered to humans without damaging their ears during the testing period. It was necessary first to subject experimental animals to loud sounds to study the location of sensory damage and to determine the degree of sound producing the damage.

Overloading An Ear
The human subject to be tested sits in a completely sound-proof room next to a battery of instruments, and he wears a set of foam rubber earphones during the test.

The essence of the test is to determine the point at which the subject's ears become "overloaded," without sending through the ear sounds intense enough to result in damage.

Dr. Lawrence indicates that ears become overloaded at a fairly low level of sound, a fact not generally known by most persons. Overloading an ear simply means putting undue strain on it.

Using oscillators, output voltmeters, and attenuators, the researchers introduce pure tones to the subject's ears of varying but harmless intensities. When a weak ear becomes overloaded, it begins generating sounds of its own. These secondary or subjective tones are impure, and they occur only when the ear is overloaded.

Dr. Lawrence points out that the level of overloading, i. e., the sudden appearance of impure tones, predicts the possibility of damaged ears. If, for example, the machine shows that tones of a certain measurement are going into the ear, while the subject actually hears two or three times that amount, there is cause for suspicion.

In other words, strong ears hear only what goes into them; weak ears hear more than what goes into them. Dr. Lawrence's device helps him separate strong ears from weak ears. And, he concludes those people who hear more than they should, should be especially cautious about entering noisy professions.

Methodist WSCS Mother-Daughter Banquet Wednesday

At a meeting held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. E. G. Bennett, the executive board of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church completed plans for the Mother and Daughter Banquet to be held in the church parlors Wednesday, May 12 at 6 p. m.

The banquet, held annually, is the highlight of the Women's Society's fellowship activities of the year and closes the social events of the spring season.

Mrs. Henry Bathke, chairman of the ticket sales, announced that reservations and tickets are available from her by calling 997, or from Mrs. Tom Wilkenson, 2496, or from the pastor of the church, Rev. Byron Hatch.

Women wishing to "adopt" daughters, and mothers willing to "lend" daughters for the evening are asked to contact Mrs. Robert S. Meyer who is handling those arrangements.

Other committee members planning the banquet are the following: Program, Mrs. Kenneth Jensen, Mrs. Harry Wilhelm; dinner, Mrs. E. G. Bennett, Mrs. Donald Ness; table decorations, Mrs. Gotthard Gustafson with the local church activities committee; publicity, Mrs. Harry Wilhelm.

During the meeting, Mrs. E. G. Bennett serving as chairman in the absence of the president, Mrs. Donald Ness, announced May 15 as the date of the spring rummage sale. Officers were asked to turn in their "Guides" which are to be used for the installation of officers at the next meeting of the W. S. C. S. to be held Thursday, May 6 at 2:30 p. m.

Michigan's Upper Peninsula — nearly one-third the total area of the state—is as big as Connecticut, Delaware, Massachusetts and Rhode Island combined. It is larger than Belgium or Switzerland.

Freedom Duties Emphasized In Loyalty Program

A "Loyalty Day" program designed to provide opportunity for re-dedication to the principles of democracy, and to off-set Communist May Day demonstrations held elsewhere in the world, was held here Friday night under sponsorship of VFW Post 4420.

Noting that many citizens lose sight of their duty to the nation, Col. John W. Kelly, keynote speaker, declared it was wrong for a man to feel he has done enough after military service.

"Duty to civilian government must be on the same basis," the reserve officer declared.

"Loyalty Day" programs are becoming a major event in many of the larger cities of the nation and are effectively matching Communist efforts, Ivor Wilcock, Master of ceremonies, noted in opening the program.

Don't Know War — Everett Anderson led group singing of patriotic songs and Mrs. Harry Secore gave two readings, "Patriotic Wish" by Edward Gress and "A Friendly Greeting." The latter was given in appreciation for VFW and Auxiliary courtesies during the Secore family's recent bereavement.

Colonel Kelly opened his address with the observation that it was somewhat out-of-place to speak to overseas veterans of loyalty, for these have unquestionably demonstrated their loyalty by their service.

Many citizens look at everything for what can be gained rather than what we can offer, Colonel Kelly stated and part of this is perhaps due to the fact that so few know what war really is.

Share Responsibility — The United States has never been invaded, but World War III may be different, the army officer observed. "If we experience the terrors of invasion, then we will know what war really is," he added.

An example of dereliction of duty is the fact that the Manistique National Guard has only 42 men, yet many young men are eligible, Col. Kelly said. The men who do

Insurance Men Will Attend Detroit Meet

Ronald Fiegel and George Macfarlane, agents here for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, Tuesday will be in Detroit to attend a conference with Frederic W. Similar meetings are scheduled in Minneapolis and Milwaukee for the Great Lakes area.

Burning Permits Required By Law

A permit must be obtained before brush, grass or debris can be burned, the Conservation Department reminded residents today.

The burning permits can be obtained from any conservation or fire officer, and at conservation stations at Newberry, Manistique, Naubinway, Seney, DeTour, Paradise, and Sault Ste. Marie and at all fire towers.

Anyone burning without prior approval is liable to prosecution, the department warned.

not belong can not realize what it means to themselves, their country and their safety, or they would assume their duties now and not wait to be drafted, he pointed out.

"It is shocking to find many asking 'What's the angle?' when a citizen volunteers his service to government, whether it be to a school board, city council or other body. All owe it to their government to share the responsibility, without any thought of personal gain," Kelly declared.

Can Lose All — Youth especially should seek this opportunity to serve and be loyal to our way of life, he stated.

"Loyalty Day" should be a day when we truly re-dedicate our lives to that for which so many have given their lives, Kelly noted. "We will lose all by lethargy, by losing our sense of values, by losing our appreciation for basic American principles," he concluded.

The program closed with group singing of "God Bless America" and "America."

Delicious lunch was served afterwards by Mrs. Henry Hagnette, Mrs. Henry Minor and Mrs. Archie Carpenter.

Clubs Observe Homemakers Week

Home Demonstration clubs in Alger and Schoolcraft County this week are joining 40,000 Michigan homemakers in observance of National Home Demonstration Week May 2-8.

The observances are emphasizing better family living, in keeping with the theme "Today's Home Builds Tomorrow's World."

The Home Demonstration program started in the United States in 1914, when the Smith-Lever became law, and is operated co-operatively by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, state land-grant colleges and local county governments. In Michigan, the program is conducted by the Michigan Cooperative Extension Service.

Full-Time Agent — Women receive up-to-date information on food and nutrition, parent education and child development, home furnishings, home management, housing, clothing and other phases of home economics.

In 1933, Schoolcraft County had 15 home demonstration groups and Alger County 11. Michigan has a total of 2,519 groups.

County Home demonstration agents, supported by specialists from Michigan State College and the U. S. Department of Agriculture, meet with the groups. The home demonstration work in the two counties was handled by Clayton D. Reid, of Manistique, until March 1, when Mrs. E. R. Crook, of Manistique, was appointed agent. She begins on a full-time basis June 1.

Community Service — During the past year, groups in the counties have participated in projects emphasizing the theme of better family living, and leader training lessons have been given in clothing, foods, home management and Christmas gifts. Special projects have included basket weaving and chair re-caning. In addition, Alger County had a meeting on taxation and a "green thumb" lesson on potting of plants.

Community projects in both counties have included giving bed sheets and other material to Bay Cliff Health Camp at Big Bay. Alger County groups also helped sponsor two talent shows for funds to defray expenses of Norman Laakso, of Chatham, one of four Michigan persons named to visit foreign countries this year under the International Farm Youth Exchange.

Some clubs have helped sponsor athletic banquets and furnish community centers, and the Mun-

GHS Rates Well In Speech Meet

Gladstone High School students competing in the Regional Forensic contests at Marquette Friday and Saturday made a very good showing.

James Keldsen in the field of oratory received a superior rating. He presented "The Constitution—the Symbol of the United States of America."

Janet Olson with a humorous declamation "Myrtle and Her Boy Friend" was rated very good.

The group was coached by Miss Alice Rhode, faculty member who accompanied them to Marquette.

Fish Spearing Proves Costly

Arnold Berg of Rapid River and Mack Davis, Robert Young and Ray Long, Gladstone, were arrested Friday night by Conservation Officers for spearing walleyed pike on the Whitefish River.

Arraigned in the court of Justice A. T. Sohlerberg Saturday afternoon all pleaded guilty and each was fined $25 and assessed court costs of $7.80.

Arrests were made by Conservation Officer Glenn Price, Gladstone, and Chester VanWeiran, Escanaba.

Six fish in possession of the men at the time were confiscated.

Pays No Attention To Siren, Is Fined

Failure to yield right of way to an emergency vehicle brought a fine of $15 and an additional penalty of $4.30 in court costs to Thomas Gafner, a serviceman, Saturday in the court of A. T. Sohlerberg.

Gafner was arrested on a John Doe warrant after a vehicle held up a state police patrol car which was rushing an accident victim to the hospital. Signal was given by siren but no heed was paid. The license number of the offending car was taken and the driver later ascertained. Gafner's arrest followed.

Michigan law requires drivers of vehicles hearing a siren, the signal that an emergency vehicle is on the road, to pull to the side and stop.

Rapid River Not Open To Spearing

The Rapid River is not open for spearing of any kind of fish this year. This is the first time in many years that spearing has not been allowed in the Rapid River.

Spearing in non-trout streams for suckers and carp opened on Saturday, May 1.

In previous years the Rapid River had been classified as a non-trout stream but this classification has now been changed.

New Clubs — In addition to local meetings and activities, members attend a homemakers conference each year in East Lansing and a homemakers camp at Chatham. Both counties were represented last year.

Any homemaker interested in extension work is invited to contact Mrs. Crook in her office, in the basement of the post office. New clubs can be formed at any time.

Nancy Jean Camps Bride Saturday Of Charles Schwartz

Miss Nancy Jean Camps, daughter of Lloyd Camps, 1304 Lake Shore, Gladstone, and Charles R. Schwartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Schwartz, Highland Ave., Wells, spoke their nuptial vows at 9 Saturday morning at St. Anthony's church, Wells. Rev. Fr. O'Neil D'Amour performed the double ring service.

Mixed bouquets of gladiolus graced the church altars. St. Anthony's choir sang the music of the mass with Miss Josephine Saykly, organist and accompanist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a ballerina length gown of nylon net over slipper satin designed with a matching jacket, long tapered sleeves, a lace bodice and Queen Anne collar. A crown of seed pearls secured her shoulder length veil. She carried a white colonial bouquet. Her only jewelry was a locket, the bridegroom's gift.

The bride's only attendant was her sister-in-law, Mrs. Kenneth Ames. She wore a ballerina length gown of yellow net over taffeta. The matching jacket had a tiny Peter Pan collar and cap sleeves. A corresponding headband and yellow gloves completed her attire. She carried a bouquet of lavender snapdragons.

The bride's brother, Charles Camps of Escanaba, served the bridegroom as best man.

The bridegroom's mother chose a navy blue suit trimmed in white with navy accessories and a corsage of red roses.

A wedding dinner was served at the Chicken Shack for immediate family members and during the afternoon a reception was held at the U. C. T. club in Escanaba. Over 200 guests were present. Mrs. Clarence Benoit, Mrs. Ed Sealander and Mrs. Frank Glasure served the wedding cake.

The bride is a graduate of Gladstone High School, class of 1933 and the bridegroom, of Escanaba High School, class of 1932.

For going away, the bride chose a blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of red roses adorned her shoulder.

They will make their home in Chicago.

Trojans Lambast Bark River Broncos 18 To 1

The St. Joe Trojans unleashed a 14-hit plate attack here yesterday afternoon to smother the Bark River Broncos 18-1.

Every St. Joe player got at least one hit off Wayne Erickson, Bark River hurler. The biggest blow was a homer with one on by Jim Greenwood in the first inning in which the Trojans scored five runs.

St. Joe scored in every inning and was at bat with seven runs across in the fifth when the game was called because of rain. A second scheduled game against Bishop Baraga of Marquette was cancelled.

Dick Cass went the distance for the Trojans and handcuffed Bark River with four hits. He fanned

Bay de Noc League Meeting Wednesday

RAPID RIVER—The Bay de Noc Baseball League will reorganize for the 1954 season at a meeting at the Swallow Inn here Wednesday night at 8.

The Bay de Noc circuit operated as a six-team league last season and may expand to eight teams this year. All teams interested in playing in the league are asked to have a representative at the meeting.

Officers will be elected for the year. Vic Thibault, league commissioner, is living in Indiana and will be unavailable this year. Joe Richards is secretary-treasurer.

An effort to complete reorganization plans will be made at the meeting as the season is rapidly approaching.

It is planned to start the 1954 schedule of games late this month.

Turpin Suffers Comeback Kayo

ROME (AP)—Two men were on the comeback trail Sunday night. One bent his head in prayer. The other fidgeted with his glove lacing.

Twenty-eight seconds later handsomely smiling was laughing happily—his prayers had been answered and he was once again the European middleweight champion, idol of Italy and aching to tangle with world champion Bobo Olson.

Former world champion Randy Turpin, slammed to the canvas by his opponent's first punch, stood in his corner with glazed eyes, smiling a little as if it couldn't have happened.

It was one of the quickest knockouts on record.

The end came so suddenly and the crunching punch was so short and swift that veteran fight reporters less than four feet away never saw the brutal left hook. Turpin, who beat Sugar Ray Robinson for the middleweight crown in 1951 and later lost it to the American Negro, was led to the corner and the fight was ended.

Hole In Nothing Fired In Tourney

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—The shot Mrs. Hilda Rogers made on the 12th hole at Recreation Park's golf course Sunday was recorded as a hole in nothing.

Playing in a handicap tournament, Mrs. Rogers had a one-stroke handicap on the 162-yard hole. Her tee shot rolled into the cup for what, without the handicap, would have been a hole in one.

Driver Killed In Auto Crash

WINCHESTER, Ind. (AP)—Two race cars collided beyond the finish line in the Winchester Speedway opening race bill Sunday, killing Chuck Stapleton, 25, Dayton, Ohio.

Stapleton's car collided with the car of Curly Boyd of Anderson as Boyd's car spun on the south turn. Stapleton's car spun against a guard rail, flipped into the air and landed upside down 150 feet away, crushing him to death. Stapleton had finished third in the race, a consolation event won by Eddie Sachs of Allentown, Pa. It was Stapleton's fourth big car race.

In the 30-lap feature race, won by Mike Nazaruk of North Bellmore, N.Y., a leak of hot oil burned Troy Ruttman, 1952 winner of the 500-mile race at Indianapolis. He was given first aid treatment for burns on a leg and a foot.

Another collision involved the cars of Bob King of Muncie and Billy Earl of Indianapolis, after King's car lost a wheel in front of the grandstand. King suffered minor burns on one arm and a side.

Bantamweight Champion Defends Title In Lulu

By OLEN CLEMENTS

BANGKOK (AP)—It was a championship fight to be remembered wherever fans argue the ultimate in gruelling classics.

For the record, Australian Jimmy Carruthers narrowly retained his world's bantamweight crown Sunday night against Chamrern Songkitrat, the Bangkok police lieutenant who graduated from the drop-kicking Thai school of fighting. Australian referee William Heneberry, the only official, gave Carruthers 32½ points and Songkitrat 27½ for the 12-round fight. Both weighed 117½.

But that doesn't begin to tell the story.

Carruthers and Songkitrat fought in a torrential downpour that spilled an inch of rain onto the canvas in less than an hour.

There were 50,000 people at the fight and $225,000 in the till. The canvas was so slippery the fighters fought barefooted.

Songkitrat started fast but Carruthers found the range and held control in the middle rounds. In the 10th, Songkitrat opened a deep cut over Carruthers' right eye.

The rugged little Thai pressed hard in the final two rounds but Carruthers' great left hand rocked back Songkitrat every time he bore in.

However, Carruthers slipped and fell on his face in the 11th and in the final round Songkitrat opened a cut in Carruthers' lip that took two stitches to close.

Fast Mound Start No Surprise To Gromek

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Steve Gromek can't understand why there should be so much eyebrow-raising over his perfect 4-0 pitching record with the surprising Detroit Tigers this season.

The 34-year-old righthander, now in his 13th big league season, doesn't subscribe to the various theories presented, to wit:

1. That he has finally recovered from a chronic sore arm. 2. That he has discovered a new pitch. 3. That he's happy to get away from the Cleveland Indians.

It's Not True

"I've heard all that, too," Gromek said today. "But none of it is true. First of all, I've never had a sore arm in my life. Also, I've read that I'm supposed to have come up with a sinker ball this spring. I've been throwing that pitch for the past five years. And I was never unhappy in Cleveland."

I was always treated well there. "In Cleveland, it was just my misfortune to be the No. 3 pitcher. Al Lopez, naturally, wanted to use his big four as often as he could. I was relegated mostly to the bullpen and started only when the big four needed an extra day of rest."

"When I did start, it was either do or die. There was always extra pressure on me."

Gets Regular Work

Could he explain his remarkable pitching that had enabled him to complete all his four starts, walk only three batters in 36 innings while striking out 18 and boast a 1.75 earned run average?

"No secret," he replied. "I've been getting regular work. The manager has faith in me and I've got confidence in myself."

Gromek came to the Tigers last June in a trade that also brought third baseman Ray Boone and pitchers Al Aber and Dick Weik from Cleveland in exchange for pitchers Art Houtteman, Bill Wight, catcher Joe Ginsberg and second baseman Owen Friend. He won seven and lost nine last season.

Little Determine First Grey Ever To Win Kentucky Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—A little grey colt with a terrific appetite and a decided dislike for work is going after two-thirds of the turf's coveted triple crown after breaking a jinx that plagued horses of his color through the 80 years of the Kentucky Derby.

No grey ever won America's No. 1 glamor race until Andy Crevelin's Determine, a mile of a horse out of Alhambra, Calif., came from second place in the stretch to hang a length and a half defeat on the swift Hasty Road last Saturday.

Fifteen other 3-year olds, including the favored Correlation, were up the stretch eating the dust of the leaders as Determine reached the end of the mile and a quarter in 2:03.

Preakness Next Stop

Determine's next stop is the Preakness at Pimlico on May 22. Then, according to present plans of his owner and trainer Willie Molter, he'll head back West where he racked up six straight state victories before arriving in Kentucky where he bowed to Hasty Road by a head in the mile of the

Musial Slams Homers As Cards Break Even

By JACK HAND AP Sports Writer

Now you know why they call Stan Musial Stan the Man. No other hitter in major league history ever hit five home runs in one day.

Only nine days ago Musial was bumping along at .250, gripped by the same slump that tortured him last spring. Now he is hitting .400 with eight homers and seven doubles among his 24 hits. The $80,000-salaried St. Louis Cardinal outfielder leads the majors with 21 runs batted in and shares the home run lead with Chicago's Hank Sauer.

The six-time batting champion of the National League "slumped" to .337 last year, a few points below his .345 lifetime batting average. As late as mid-June he was struggling at the .250 mark.

Homer-Happy

"All I need is one of those four-for-four days," he said then.

He got his four for four Sunday in the first game, three home runs and a single off New York Giant pitching. Then he added two more homers in the second game.

Six men had hit four homers in a double-header but Musial never had hit three. Five men had hit five homers in two consecutive games, but not on the same day.

Musial's clubhouse comment was typical of a team man: "You can't smile too much when you lose a ball game." For the Cards did lose that second game 9-7 after taking the opener 10-5.

A total of 12 home runs were hit in the two games at Busch Stadium and 21 in all in the National League, four short of the record set July 16, 1950.

Phils In Front

Musial's shiny day had no appreciable effect on the league race. The Philadelphia Phillies gained a 4-3 edge over Cincinnati in the first half of a double-header. The second game was washed out. Bob Miller's effective relief pitching and Del Ennis' home run saved the day for the Phils.

Chicago and Pittsburgh also went on a homer spree with a total of eight, three by Hank Sauer, as they split a pair. A Sauer homer and single gave Paul Minner a 5-3 first-game decision over Vern Law. The Pirates ripped into the Cubs for eight runs in the first inning of the second game on the way to an 18-10 decision. Darkness mercifully put an end to the slaughter at the end of eight innings after six home runs had been hit, two more by Sauer.

Indians Gain Ground

Brooklyn's game at Milwaukee was rained out. The American League also had a postponement, the Baltimore at Boston double-header.

Cleveland gained ground on everybody in the American, winning a pair from Washington 6-4 and 6-3 in 10 innings. Chicago won its third straight shutout 4-0 at Philadelphia with Don Johnson throwing a two-hitter but the White Sox lost the second game 2-1 on Elmer Valo's pinch single in the ninth, his first hit of the season. The New York Yankees broke loose with their biggest inning, six runs in the third, to smother Detroit 12-4. Then they were shut out with one hit by Billy Hoelt 4-0 in the second game, cut to five innings by darkness.

Hustling Tigers Half Game Off Front Place

BOSTON (AP)—The Detroit Tigers started the season putting all their money on some old arms and some young bats.

The young bats in the hands of Al Kaline, Bill Tuttle and Frank Bolling had come through.

Resting for a three-day series with the Boston Red Sox starting Tuesday, the Tigers were in second place in the American League, a half game behind Chicago.

Most of the old arms had come through too. Steve Gromek, 34, has won four, lost none. Ned Garver, 29, has won two, lost none. Ralph Branca, 28, working mostly in relief, has won two, lost none.

Between them, they have won eight of the Tigers' nine victories.

Gray Battered 12-4
Detroit has two other pitchers who are expected to help carry the load: Ted Gray, 26, and Billy Hoelt, only two weeks away from his 22nd birthday.

Sunday in his third start, Gray was smashed 12-4. Hoelt, making his second start, came through. The Tigers split a doubleheader with the New York Yankees, losing the first and winning a five-inning nightcap 4-0 called because of darkness.

In the first game Gray was the loser. He lasted only two innings. He faced five batters in the third before he was pulled out. During his stand Gray allowed four hits, walked two and was charged with an error.

In the third inning, Gray had the benefit of a 2-0 lead. When he left the Yankees were leading 3-2 and had two men on base with none out.

Hoelt Is Hot
Reliever Ray Herbert finally retired the side but not until three more runs had scored, two of them charged to Gray.

The nightcap was different. Hoelt kept the Yankees hitless until the fifth inning when third baseman Andy Carey doubled with two out. Darkness gave the young southpaw a five-inning shutout and squared his record at 1-1.

On the hitting side, the Tigers were held to four in the first game by Jim McDonald and Allie Reynolds. But all four hits counted in bringing in the Tiger runs.

In the second game, the Tigers made six hits for another four runs. But the standout ad was five Yankee errors.

'55 Cars Will Be Improved

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Auto Editor

DETROIT (AP)—Further refinements in most automatic transmissions will be announced with the 1955 model automobiles.

Simplification has been a major objective of all the transmission manufacturers. This means lower production costs and lower prices to the motorist. Most industry engineers agree these objectives can be achieved.

Competition has brought lower prices for many of the optional engineering features developed in the post war period. This is especially true in the case of power steering.

Power steering, relatively new on passenger cars, now is available as extra equipment on most makes of cars—and standard on some of the higher price units. It undoubtedly will be standard some day on all makes.

Nothing the industry has developed in recent years has been as popularly received as power steering. Along with automatic transmissions it offers the "hot-test" package in the industry's group of postwar engineering refinements for passenger cars.

But other advances also are in prospect. Already well on its way apparently is an instantaneous car heating device. If this proves as practicable as its proponents expect, the principle probably can be adapted to quick starting of the car engine in sub-zero temperatures.

The changes in automatic transmissions are aimed also at increasing engine efficiency. That, of course, means getting more miles per gallon from a given amount of fuel. The engineers generally have agreed automatic transmissions in the past have used a little more fuel per mile than the conventional type transmission.

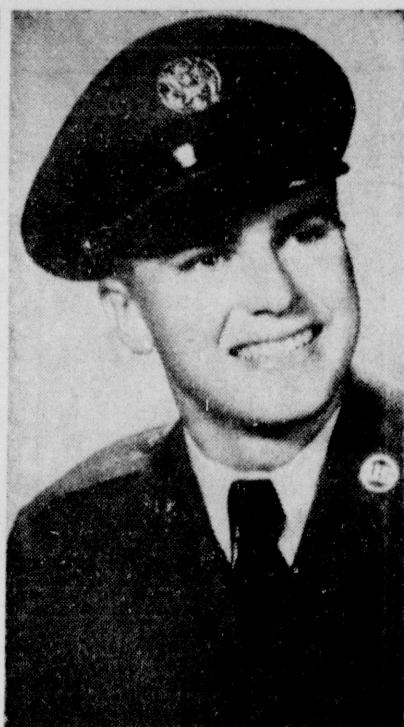

Meanwhile a couple of V-8 engines of higher horsepower output than any now in use are being developed in the industry laboratories. Stock cars with engines developing up to 265 horsepower are a distinct 1955 possibility.

Chrysler's 235 horsepower engine, used in its Imperial line, is the present leading unit in power output.

Chronic Bad Drivers Are Mental Cases, Psychologist Says

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A psychologist says many chronic bad drivers are in worse shape mentally than criminals—and some persons driving cars would be committed as legally insane.

Dr. Alan Canty of Detroit told the Midwestern Psychological Assn. here Friday he studied 812 bad drivers (determined by traffic tickets) and 812 criminals for a year. He found more bad drivers were stupid, psychoneurotic, alcoholic, emotionally unstable, immature, or egocentric.

COMPLETES JAPAN DUTY—Staff Sgt. Edward (Jim) Cox Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Cox, 219 N. 11th St., recently completed a two and a half year tour in Japan, where he was stationed at Brady Field. He will spend a 30 day leave with his parents before reporting to Eglin A.F.B. at Florida. After completing basic training at Texas, he received a career guidance course at Lowry Air Force Base near Denver, Colo. Jim is in the personnel division of the Air Force. He reenlisted in March 1951.
